Love Promises Probe of Use Of State Cars

DENVER (AP)—The use of state-owned cars will be investigated on orders of Gov. John A. Love.

State Purchasing Agent Louis Middlemist said Love had directed him to review the use of the state-owned vehicles as part of an economy campaign.

"There have been indications," Middlemist said, "several cars are being used to drive back and forth to home and office and for very little state business."

The state has 850 passenger cars.

Agencies have requested the new purchase of 200 automobiles.

Middlemist said it may be possible to transfer some of the little-used state cars from agencies to the motor pool and thus reduce the need for new purchases.

Mary Discussion Deemphasized at Vatican Council

By GERALD I. MILLER

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican Ecumenical Council deemphasized its consideration of the Virgin Mary today, voting narrowly to incorporate a separate document concerning her in a larger schema on the Roman Catholic Church as a whole.

The action is expected to have wide implications for efforts to promote Christian unity. Protestants often have criticized Roman Catholic emphasis on Mary.

In another major action, the council approved a document endorsing efforts to work out an international perpetual calendar and a fixed date for Easter. The vote was 2,154 in favor, 21 against, and 16 in favor with reservations. Two ballots were held.

The vote on Mary was closer.

A council spokesman said 1,114 prelates voted to incorporate consideration of the Virgin's place in Catholic theology in a broad schema or topic on the nature of the Church, while 1,074 voted to consider a separate schema on Mary.

Two council fathers voted for incorporation with reservations, and three ballots were blank.

It was one of the closest votes in the council since the assembly.

Paper Charges Worldwide Drug Price Rigging

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune said today it has turned over to the Senate Antitrust subcommittee "secret documents of a worldwide cartel that rigs drug prices."

The newspaper said it obtained the papers from several sources. It did not elaborate.

In Washington, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said the papers have been received by the subcommittee, which he heads. He said South American drug marketing practices and how U.S. firms are involved has been studied by the subcommittee behind closed doors for some time.

The Herald Tribune said "experts who have reviewed the documents are convinced that the price structure of certain drugs widely marketed in the U.S. is based on international agreements."

No General Break Seen In Drought of Autumn

CHICAGO (AP)—No general break in autumn's severe and costly drought appeared in prospect today but possible rains from hurricane Ginny may bring some relief in Eastern parts of the nation.

Rain, showers or snow were forecast for broad areas of the East and South. The rains, if heavy and widespread, could be of benefit in alleviating drought conditions, curtailing the rash of fires in forestlands and replenishing dwindling water supplies.

Forecasters said Ginny was centered about 250 miles south of Cape Cod and moving northward, aiming at southeastern New England and threatening strong winds and rain for New York City and Long Island. Heavy rains were indicated in eastern Long Island and eastern Connecticut, with tides running up to six feet above normal.

Gale warnings were displayed from Eastport, Maine, to the Virginia Capes.

If Ginny continues on her present course, most of the rain

Bubonic Rabbit Problem Said To Be Minor

FORT COLLINS (AP)—The possibility of rabbit hunters contracting bubonic plague from infected rabbits was termed a minor problem today by a Colorado State University doctor.

There has been speculation among some hunters that they might become infected if they ate rabbits.

The probability of hunters killing rabbits infected with bubonic plague in this area does not appear any more likely than five years ago, said Dr. Harold Breen of CSU's Veterinary Medical School diagnostic staff.

Trapping by U.S. Public Health Service workers has disclosed some bubonic plague diseased rodents in some parts of the state.

Dr. Breen said that "Despite the fact that this study has found a few isolated cases, there is no danger as far as I can see."

World's Busiest Railroad Station Being Torn Down

NEW YORK (UPI)—It was a cross between a Roman bath and a Greek temple. Artists and designers for years had argued whether it was an architectural masterpiece or a monstrosity.

But for more than a half a century it had been a familiar landmark to untold millions of New Yorkers and visitors from all over the world.

Today the artistic merits or demerits of the world's busiest railroad station became academic.

At 9 a.m. Monday the first of the electric jackhammers started tearing into the stone and granite that formed the imposing facade of famed Pennsylvania Station.

The columned grandeur of the old building will be no more, but the station will remain. It will be rebuilt from the ground up.

The underground railroad station will be topped by a 33-story modernistic skyscraper and a new $70 million Madison Square Garden sports center.

Springs Pilot Survives in Jungle Crash

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP)—Harold Joe Anderson of Colorado Springs survived 12 days in the jungle after his plane crashed Oct. 14 on a flight to Bluefields, the War Ministry said Monday.

The war office said Anderson, a pilot engaged in crop dusting work, was on a flight to the Atlantic Coast port when he crashed. Anderson made his way to a small village where he was cared for.

KID PARKING

NEW YORK (UPI)—Architects of the famed "Tivoli" of Copenhagen have designed a playground for the 1964-65 World's Fair that will have attendants and facilities for "parking" of children, Fair officials report.

Ginny Brushes Long Island; Turns to Ocean

NEW YORK (AP)—Hurricane Ginny, picking up speed after days of meandering, brushed past eastern Long Island with gale-force winds today and headed toward open sea.

The Weather Bureau canceled a hurricane watch on the New England coast and a flood warning for Long Island.

This morning radar found the center of the storm about 180 miles east of Nantucket. Ginny was moving northeastward at about 35 miles an hour, packing an estimated 95-m.p.h. punch at (Turn to Page 4, Column 1)

Bella and Hassan Arrive for Peace Talks in Bamako

BAMAKO, Mali (AP)—President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria and King Hassan II of Morocco arrived in Bamako today to bring their border war to the conference table.

Hassan, first to arrive, was smiling. Ben Bella arrived about a half hour later. Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, a prime mover in mediation efforts, was the last to arrive.

President Modibo Keita of Mali immediately invited the three leaders to lunch at his palace before the first session of the conference.

Western diplomats hoped the meeting would produce a ceasefire in the disputed border area between Morocco and Algeria. But they doubted any of the fundamental issues dividing the two North African neighbors would be resolved.

Ben Bella told his people by radio that he was optimistic for peace.

To strengthen the Moroccan position at the talks, Hassan's government announced its troops were eight miles from Tindouf, well in the territory claimed by Algeria.

The Moroccan King told his nation by radio Monday night he would press for adjustment of the frontier, most of which has never been formally marked out. It was doubtful Ben Bella would concede much, if anything, and he was certain to reject Morocco's claim to the ore-rich Tindouf area.

Convict Without Visitors for 59 Years to Get One

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Richard Honeck, who hasn't had a visitor in 59 years in an Illinois prison, is going to have one.

His niece, Mrs. Clara Naegel, said she assumed her uncle was dead until she read an Associated Press story that the 84-year-old man had neither visitor nor letter for more than half a century.

She wrote, as did 1,999 others who read the story, and announced Monday: "When I get my vacation, I'm going back to see him."

Honeck has been in prison for 64 years for killing a school teacher.

Mrs. Orth recalled when her father learned his trade from Richard Honeck's father and boarded with the Honeck family in Hermann, Mo.; married Richard's sister, Bertha, and took her to Durango, Colo.

Clara Naegel was born two years after the murder that sent Richard to prison.

"I knew he was in prison," she recalled. "But no one in the family mentioned it."

She wrote "Dear Uncle Richard" that "I naturally assumed, since so many years had passed, that you had died."

Warden Ross Randolph of the Menard Penitentiary, Chester, Ill., called Honeck into his office and showed him the 2,000 letters, among which was the one from his niece.

In a letter to his niece, Honeck recalled visiting the Naegels in Durango before she was born.

"He even remembered going up on Reservoir Hill with my dad to get some cactus for our garden," Mrs. Orth said.

Allies Squabble Over Shipping Wheat to Reds

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States' insistence that American ships be given priority to carry any U.S. wheat to Russia is drawing fire not only from the Russians but from America's maritime allies as well.

Diplomatic sources say that Japan, Norway, Denmark, Sweden and Britain have all—formally or informally, and through various diplomatic channels—complained to the United States over the "American bottoms" requirement.

At the same time, the rule has snagged Soviet wheat-buying negotiations with at least one major U.S. wheat trading firm. A Russian delegation, headed by Leonid Matveyev, met with officials of this firm. One of the Americans described the meeting later as an "impassé."

The Russians wanted to purchase wheat but said they (Turn to Page 4, Column 1)

800-Man Army Takes Over Dahomey Rule

COTONOU, Dahomey (AP)—Col. Christophe Soglo, Dahomey's new military ruler, announced a provisional government today and named himself President Hubert Maga to it.

Soglo, chief of Dahomey's 800-man army, took over supreme powers Monday in a bloodless coup after striking workers in four days of street demonstrations demanded Maga's ouster.

Soglo dissolved the National Assembly and suspended the constitution. Then he reappointed the three-man provisional government Maga had named in an effort to appease the demonstrators.

In addition to Maga, who leads the Democratic rally, the provisional regime includes Sourou Migan Apithy of the Republican party, who was vice president under Maga but also his political rival, and Justin Ahomadegbey, a former president of the Legislative Assembly whose Democratic Union party Maga dissolved in 1961.

Maga, who was named for his role in the new government, went on the radio Monday night to bow publicly to the coup.

The striking workers began returning to their jobs. They were reported strongly supporting Soglo.

The army chief issued an order forbidding all street demonstrations and warned against vandalism.

Man's Death In Springs Listed Suicide

A Phoenix man apparently committed suicide by piping carbon monoxide into his car Monday, the sheriff's office reported.

The man, identified as Roy A. Whites, 48, was found Monday afternoon on Mt. Herman Road by Harold Frazier of the Black Forest. Frazier was hunting in the area when he came across Whites' car.

One end of a hose was attached to the exhaust pipe and the other end was in the car, the report said.

Frazier notified his wife of the apparent suicide and she called the sheriff's office. Deputy Frank Ripley and Robert Stone were led to the scene by Frazier.

Ripley reported that a note was found in the car which said Whites had been suffering from ill health.

The body was taken to the Law Mortuary by E and E Ambulance.

Daytime Beer Sales Banned For Cubans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Havana Radio has announced a government ban on daytime sales of beer during work-days, starting today.

Fidel Castro's Interior Ministry set 6:30 p.m. as the time Cubans can start buying their brew.

"In this way workmen can buy beer after they finish their daily work, and vagrants and parasites will not be in a position to obtain great amounts of the product," said the broadcast, monitored in Miami.

Credits Urged For Sale Abroad Of U.S. Arms

By DONNA LOGAN

Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

The U. S. government is calling on commercial, banking and insurance interests to make up to $3 billion in export credits available in the next 10 years for sale of military equipment abroad.

Paul H. Nitze, assistant Secretary of Defense for international security affairs, said here Monday that government reliance on foreign aid appropriations or Export-Import Bank methods to extend the credit "will not be adequate to support the import requirements of our allies."

Nitze, here to address the Aerospace Industries Association Export Meeting at the Broadmoor Hotel, said that increased sales of military equipment overseas by American industry and finance "have provided a useful and steadily improving contribution to the military portion of the balance of payments account."

He said, however, that "for the foreseeable future, the U. S. will continue to maintain a large proportion of its armed force overseas. The expenditures connected with such deployments significantly affect America's balance of payments and impose upon us a responsibility to do our best to minimize the adverse impact."

Nondiscrimination Difficult in State, Gov. Love Declares

DENVER (AP)—Gov. John Love said Monday night it is more difficult than many persons believe for the state to force real estate dealers to comply with nondiscrimination laws.

He spoke at a civil rights conference of business, labor, minority group and government leaders.

"Revocation of a broker's license would take legislative or court action in line with the due process clause," Love said.

"That's where it stands now."

He complimented members of the conference on their plans to set up an employment and education coordinating center primarily for Negroes and Spanish-Americans.

"You are not talking, you are taking action—moving forward," he said.

Building Permit Issued for Neusteters

A $965,543 building permit for the Neusteters Building going up at 28 N. Cascade Ave., was issued Monday afternoon by the City Inspection Department.

Bruce Hughes, general contractor, took out the permit for Enco Company. Hughes is the builder of the new Colorado Springs Police Building and Emergency Control Center.

Carlisle Guy is architect for the Neusteters Building.

Fishing Industry Battles Botulism Poisoning Scare

DETROIT (AP)—The three-week-old botulism food poisoning scare is causing a reported 20,000 layoffs in the Great Lakes commercial fishing industry. Meantime, the nation's fishing industry is fighting to restore public confidence in its smoked fish product.

Great Lakes area layoff reports came from commercial fishing sources Monday as representatives of the industry began meetings with government officials at Washington in an effort to regain the housewife's favor.

Sales of smoked fish plummeted after seven deaths from botulism and a government warning to the public not to eat smoked fish from the Great Lakes area unless it is known to have been properly processed.

The seven deaths, blamed on botulism in smoked fish, were in Michigan, Tennessee and Alabama.

The federal Food and Drug Administration agreed after the meetings with industry men to issue a statement re-emphasizing that its warnings on smoked fish does not apply to fresh fish, salt water fish, canned fish, fresh-frozen fish or smoked fish from any place except the Great Lakes region.

63 Trapped Men Emerge Safely From Deep Mine

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Sixty-three miners trapped in an elevator shaft of one of the world's deepest gold mines emerged safely Monday night to be greeted by jubilant relatives and friends.

All the miners were pronounced in good shape. Thirteen were trapped for 12 hours in a cage nearly a mile below the surface. The other 50 spent 14 hours in another cage at the 1,000-foot level.

A mishap in the lift machinery, which fatally injured a workman, caused the cages to become stuck Monday. The accident occurred at a mine near Carletonville, 60 miles southwest of Johannesburg.

A small service cage was used to rescue the miners. The cage inched its way down to shaft to the 1,000-foot level where 50 men trapped scrambled aboard.

The cage then reached the 4,800-foot level where the 13 were trapped. They, too, were hauled to the surface.

Budget of $838,252 Asked By D&B School in Springs

An appropriation of $838,252 for 1964 was requested Monday by the Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind when members of the Legislature's Joint Budget Committee met at the school for their annual hearing.

Superintendent Armin Turechek told committee members the appropriation was needed in part for teachers' salaries, to bring the school's pay scale level up to that of public school teachers in Colorado Springs.

This proposed figure for general operating expenses is 5.4 per cent from last year's figure, according to Turechek.

The superintendent also asked for a new vocational arts building, estimated at a cost of $438,775, and a new residence building, to cost $28,600.

In addition, the school asked for $281,435 for site development including a new library, gymnasium and dormitories.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators open their investigation today of Robert G. Baker, the page boy they called "Bobby" who quickly grew up to wealth and power as secretary of the Senate's Democratic majority.

The first witnesses in the Rules Committee's closed hearing was to be Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who has conducted a one-man probe of the affairs of Baker, 35, who resigned his Senate job under fire Oct. 7.

A specific point under the committee's scrutiny is an allegation that Baker used pressure tactics to induce big defense contractors to install at their plant's vending machines of various kinds leased from a firm in (Turn to Page 4, Column 8)

Bareback Bronc Champ Suspended For 'Cheating'

DENVER (UPI)—The Rodeo Cowboys Association disclosed today it had suspended the leading contender for the 1963 bareback bronc riding championship for allegedly cheating in competition.

R. C. A. president Dale Smith said Paul Mayo, 21, of Grinnell, Iowa, was leading all bareback riders in the nation; and R. C. "Judge" Tolbirt, 25, a Columbus, Tex., rodeo secretary were both suspended indefinitely from the association.

Both also were fined $500 each and Mayo's name was stricken from the championship title standings.

Smith said riding judges discovered Tolbirt "cheating in Mayo's favor" during the official drawing of bucking stock for the Memphis, Tenn., rodeo in mid-September.

Smith said Tolbirt told R. C. A. officials he "was trying" (Turn to Page 4, Column 1)

Pilot From Springs Hurt In Plane Crash

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP)—Lawrence P. Dale, 39, of 2220 Afton Way, Colorado Springs, Colo., was injured Monday in the crash of a light plane in a cornfield just east of Bethlehem.

Dale was admitted to St. Luke's Hospital here. His condition was reported fair.

He told the Federal Aviation Agency that he had trouble with a rough engine on a flight to Allentown and was attempting an emergency landing. The one-seat plane flopped over in a Bethlehem township cornfield. A passing motorist, Mrs. Sarah Kelly, drove Dale to the hospital.

"Our statutory set-up for administering these lands reminds me of a ghost town that time has passed by."

In an address prepared for the fifth American Forestry Assn. Congress, Udall said he was glad that some of the discussion during the meeting would emphasize reform of the public land laws.

"My department and other departments have endorsed the proposal to establish a land law review commission," Udall said. "I am sure that the recommendations of this Congress will be highly valuable to it is established."

Among the laws he said need updating are the Homestead Act of 1862, the Mining Law of 1872, and the absolute laws governing sales of public lands.

The secretary announced the launching by the Bureau of Land Management of a new program of showcase resource conservation areas. He explained that in the interest of greater mutual understanding some 85 individual areas will be used to give practical demonstrations of what can be done with the public range and forest lands.

The Bureau of Land Management said the 85 areas are scattered over 10 western states — Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah and Wyoming—and range in size from a relatively few acres to thousands of acres.

The areas are identified largely by local place names, many of which reflect the history of the west.

By states and BLM districts, the resource conservation areas include:

Colorado — Canon City District, the Poso and Poncha Pass; Craig District, Calamity Ridge; Denver, Kremmling; Durango, Disappointment Valley; Grand Junction, Dominguez; and Montrose, Gold Basin.

Montana — Billings District, South Fork Bluewater and Pompey; Dillon district, Grasshopper and Horse Prairie; Lewiston, Buddy Blue and Maiden Canyon; Malta, Larb Hills and Lone Tree; Miles City, Coal Creek and Widow Coulee; and Missoula, Wallace-Ashby.

Wyoming — Casper District, Bates Hole; Lander District, Hall Creek and Dishpan Butte and Divide; Pinedale, Mesa; Rawlins, Robbers Gulch; Rock Springs, Bear River; and Worland, Bud Kimball Creek and Dry Creek and Little Dry Creek.

ADD TO "LIST"

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two British ships, a Moroccan vessel and two Lebanese ships have been added to the maritime administration's "blacklist" of vessels barred from carrying U.S. government-financed cargoes because they participated in trade with Cuba.

The new listings, announced here, brought the blacklist total to 187. The additions were identified as: Newgate and Newlane, British; Lettic and Vergolivada, Lebanese; and Badora, Morocco.

A NEW SMALLPOX PREVENTIVE

A new prophylactic treatment of smallpox may be the most important advance in this disease since Edward Jenner (1749-1823) discovered the vaccine. The chemical in question, Marboran, represents more than a decade of research work on the part of British and American scientists. This drug reduced the incidence of smallpox 96 per cent in India, where the infection is prevalent.

The drug is aimed at the person who comes into contact with a victim and who is susceptible either because he never was vaccinated or the procedure was done many years ago. Prior to the advent of Marboran, health authorities vaccinated these individuals immediately but all too often this was done too late in the incubation period to prevent the illness. As a result, they were condemned to a severe and possibly fatal attack of smallpox.

Marboran will change all this. A report in the Lancet, a British medical journal, says every smallpox patient admitted to the infectious disease hospital, Tondiarpet, Madras, India, between February and July of 1963, was questioned about those who came into contact with him after the rash developed.

A total of 2,227 susceptible persons were found and vaccinated. (Many others were excluded because they had had smallpox or refused to cooperate.) Of the total, 1,101 contacts were given Marboran and the remainder were used as controls. All were visited 16 days later to determine what had happened. There were three mild cases of smallpox among the treated group. In contrast, 78 cases occurred with 12 deaths among the 1,126 contacts who had been vaccinated but not treated with Marboran. The drug appeared to be most effective among contacts who never had been vaccinated. This is fortunate because in some western countries, many persons have not been vaccinated and epidemics have appeared in the last few years. Marboran also is effective when the contact is not detected soon enough for successful revaccination to offer any chance on protection.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer

Exercise in Heart Test
B. R. writes: What shows up on an electrocardiogram while exercising that is not shown on this test while resting?

Reply
In some persons, especially those with narrowed coronary arteries, changes in certain waves are noted in the electrocardiogram during exercise. This is used as a test in angina pectoris.

Oral Contraceptive
Mrs. B. writes: Do the birth control pills delay menstruation? If so, how can a woman tell if she is pregnant?

Reply
These pills should not delay menstruation. They prevent ovulation and are 99.9 per cent effective when used as directed. As a result, other reasons for the delay should be considered.

South Pacific Worms
E. L. V. writes: Is there a drug to cure filaria?

Yes, if you refer to the most common form of filariasis, usually called elephantiasis. It is confined largely to the far east. This worm infestation is treated with Hetrozan or Caparsolate.

American Reds Believed Safe From Arrest Now

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

REDS: FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says many American Communist leaders believe they are safe from arrest for some time and therefore are operating more openly.

In the FBI's annual report for fiscal 1963, issued Wednesday, Hoover called this "a new trend." He said the Red leaders "contend there will be no more charges brought against them under the Internal Security Act of 1950 until the cases against Hall and Davis are settled finally by the Supreme Court."

Gus Hall, general secretary, and Benjamin J. Davis Jr., national secretary of the Communist party, U.S.A., have been indicted for failing to register with the government as members of the party. Motions for dismissal of the indictments are pending.

Hoover said some party leaders think it may take five years for action on the Hall and Davis cases. Even then, they feel, the 1950 act may be declared unconstitutional.

Consequently, Hoover said, "they are convinced the party can and should function more openly."

CUBAN SHIPPING BAN: The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has tacked onto the foreign aid bill a provision banning U.S. assistance to any nation which allows its ships or planes to carry military or strategic goods to Cuba.

The action by the committee on Wednesday was slightly less restrictive than a similar amendment to the foreign aid authorization bill approved by the House. That amendment would have denied U.S. foreign aid to any country which failed to stop its ships and planes from carrying to Cuba any item of economic assistance as well as military and strategic goods.

The Senate amendment also would penalize countries for permitting shipment of other equipment and materials unless the President reported to Congress that he had determined such shipments were important to U.S. security.

No. 17: The Atomic Energy Commission has announced detonation at its underground Nevada test site of a nuclear device — the 17th in a series of weapons development tests at the site this year.

Once again, in announcing Wednesday's blast, the AEC did not go into details. It said only the force of the explosion was intermediate — which means a punch equivalent to 20,000 to 1 million tons of TNT.

POLLUTION: The Senate has passed and sent to the House a

DEPLOYMENT FOR DISASTER

NEW YORK (AP)—Emergencies keep church relief agencies on the jump. On Sept. 27, Church World Service, relief agency for the National Council of Churches, rushed 40 tons of food to victims of a disastrous forest fire in northern Brazil.

A few days before, the agency sent $5,000 to help victims of Typhoon Gloria on Formosa, where 1,000 houses were wrecked. On Oct. 1, the agency sent 40 tons of flour and dehydrated milk, a million water purification tablets, 2,000 blankets and $5,000 to help 50,000 victims of flood in Ghana, Africa.

bill aimed at tightening controls over water pollution.

Among other things, the bill, passed Wednesday by a 69-11 vote, would authorize a federal study of how to prevent kitchen and laundry room detergents or other pollutants from getting into water supplies.

CF&I to Build New Plant at Sunrise

NEW YORK (UPI)—Construction on a multi-million dollar plant designed to upgrade iron ore concentrate will be started shortly by Colorado Fuel and Iron Corp. at its Sunrise, Wyo., mine.

An announcement by the company here said the plant will be capable of upgrading iron ore concentrate from below 50 to more than 55 per cent iron cement.

The plant will have a capacity of 600,000 net tons of concentrate a year.

The upgraded ore will provide a more uniform and physically improved concentrate for the blast furnaces at CF&I's Pueblo, Colo., plant, according to the company. It will allow the use at the Sunrise mine of some low grade ores which presently are uneconomical to process.

The plant is scheduled for completion within a year, the company said.

Red China Admits Atom Bomb Far Off

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's foreign minister, Chen Yi, was quoted today as saying it will be "several years" before his country can test an atomic bomb.

Kyodo News Service said the Chinese vice premier made this statement in Peking to visiting Japanese newsmen.

Chen reportedly said that the delay in testing was due to the backward state of China's industrial base and that it will be some time before it can mass produce atomic weapons.

But he emphasized the Chinese Communist government has every intention of acquiring nuclear power, because without it China would remain a second or third-class nation.

Plastic Heart Pump Used By Surgeons

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
LOS ANGELES (AP) — For four days last July, a man lived with a substitute plastic pump implanted in his heart.

It coursed the blood through his body, driven by a pulsing air compressor lying beside him.

It marked the first historic step in a human, with partial success, toward the grand goal of giving doomed heart patients a substitute mechanical heart to restore health and life.

Dr. Michael DeBakey, professor of surgery at Baylor University Medical School, described the human drama and its portent Sunday at closing sessions of the American Heart Association.

Court Refuses To Issue Ruling In Secrecy Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court refused today to rule on conditions under which the secretary of the Air Force may bar disclosure of an accident investigation report during litigation by an injured Air Force captain.

The ruling was asked by Jack S. Machin, who lost both legs in the 1956 crash of a B25 at Lowry Air Force base in Colorado. He sued the plane manufacturer on a charge of negligence and sought to subpoena the Air Force's air accident investigation report.

Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert claimed executive privilege in withholding most of the report and Machin sought aid of lower federal courts here. Dissatisfied with lower court rulings, Machin asked the Supreme Court to require as a minimum an examination of the entire report by the U.S. District Court here and a determination by the district as to what parts will be disclosed.

Machin also said the U.S. Court of Appeals here erred in limiting mechanics' reports as the sole items for review by the district court. The limitation is so narrow as to be meaningless, Machin contended.

The secretary's claim of executive privilege, the appeal added, will likely result in failure of Machin's suit against the manufacturer unless the supreme court fixes the "correct guidelines."

would not pay what they saw as "extra charges" for American shipping. U.S. shipping rates are about $10 a ton higher than foreign rates for delivery to Black Sea or Baltic ports.

The American dealers said they could not apply for an export license from the Commerce Department unless they stipulated in writing that the wheat would be shipped in American flag vessels "if available."

The U.S. maritime allies complained that in the past they were led to believe the United States gave priority to American shipping only for goods under the foreign aid program or goods otherwise financed by the U.S. government.

They regard the prospective wheat sales to Russia as strictly commercial. A Norwegian diplomat called the requirement "a serious departure" from American shipping policy. Other countries have said it is "discrimination" against them.

"The hurricane watch on the New England coast and eastern Long Island has been discontinued," the Weather Bureau said. "However, whole gale warnings are displayed elsewhere from eastern Long Island to Eastport, Maine."

Heavy rain over portions of eastern New England brought a measure of relief to an area plagued by drought and forest fires. Bans on burning were eased.

The morning advisory indicated the Weather Bureau regarded Ginny as a diminishing threat.

The bureau said the present course indicated Ginny would continue moving rapidly toward the northeast, passing along the coast of Nova Scotia.

Heavy rain fell on eastern Long Island and the New England coast and breakers pounded the Long Island north shore.

bly of 2,300 prelates opened more than a year ago. Council decisions usually require a two-thirds majority, but the action today was considered procedural and required only a majority of the 2,193 prelates voting, or 1,097 votes.

As a result of the vote, the Marian topic will become a chapter in the theological schema "De Ecclesia," which the council has been debating for the past month. "De Ecclesia" examines the nature and structure of the Roman Catholic Church.

At the heart of the matter is the highly controversial question of whether the role of the mother of Christ has been over-emphasized in Roman Catholic theology.

Some of the delegates feel a separate schema might put undue emphasis on Mary and distort her role in the church. This group holds that by making the Marian document part of a larger topic on the nature of the Church, the council could improve relations with Protestants.

Judge Grants Probation in Assault Case

Robert David was granted probation Monday by District Court Judge Hunter D. Harde-man.

Davis, 43, of 124 Fairview Ave., Manitou Springs, had pleaded guilty to a charge of simple assault. He had originally been charged with assault with a deadly weapon, but the charge was later reduced.

Three Trapped Miners Keep Up Good Spirits

BROISTEDT, Germany (AP) — Three high-spirited men trapped in an iron ore mine since Thursday continued cracking jokes with their rescuers today as a rescue shaft passed the halfway mark.

"Don't send down too much stuff—we'll only have to bring it out of the shaft again," one of the miners quipped over a supply tube that has been bored down to them 259 feet below the surface.

Hot food, warm clothing and the sports sections of newspapers go down to the three via the six-inch tube.

If boring operations continue at the present rate of five feet per hour, the men could be rescued Wednesday. But Rudolf Stein, the mine director, warned that geological variations in the earth could slow the speed of the drilling.

After 46 hours of drilling, the rescue shaft had reached the halfway mark.

A more powerful drilling rig was put into action today on a second rescue shaft.

The three were trapped in an air pocket in a gallery when a nearby dam burst and flooded the mine. Eighty-six miners managed to escape, but 40 others are still unaccounted for and are believed to have drowned.

Christine Keeler Held for Trial In London Court

LONDON (AP) — Playgirl Christine Keeler was held for trial today on charges of perjury and conspiracy to obstruct justice. Conviction on these charges carries a maximum penalty of 28 years in prison.

Also held for trial at the Old Bailey Court were Christine's three co-defendants. The action was taken after a preliminary hearing by Marylebone magistrate's court.

The others are Christine's apartment mate, Paula Hamilton-Marshall, 23, their housekeeper, Mrs. Olive Brookler, 56, and West Indian Rudolph Fenton, 39.

Their trial before a jury was ordered by the judge after the police prosecutor finished presenting evidence charging that Miss Keeler and her co-defendants gave false testimony and concealed relevant facts in the trial of Christine's ex-lover, Jamaican jazz singer Aloysius (Lucky) Gordon, when he was convicted earlier this year of having beaten her.

Christine, 21, whose affair with former War Minister John Profumo rocked the British government, was charged with committing perjury to get Gordon, a Negro, sent to jail.

Fishing Industry Battles Botulism Poisoning Scare

California ordered removal from retail outlets any smoked whitfish or chubs from the Great Lakes area. These included Great Lakes fish smoked and packed in California.

H. J. Dornbos & Bros. Grand Haven, Mich., fish packer which the FDA said had produced a contaminated smoked whitfish, Monday held back on plans to resume smoking through given FDA permission to go ahead.

David Price, Dornbos plant manager, said operations would be closed down until FDA officials "get to the bottom of this matter." The FDA said no botulism had been found in Dornbos products since the Tennessee deaths. Dornbos quit these operations voluntarily Oct. 7.

Credits Urged For Sale Abroad Of U.S. Arms

North as Secretary of the Navy next month, said government and industry should work together to achieve an "average annual rate of sales of between $1 billion and $1.5 billion a year" between 1962-1971.

Nitze said over the 10-year period 1963-1971, "countries in Europe and the Far East economically capable of buying material for force improvements will spend some $55 to $65 billion for military hardware."

He said 80 per cent of U.S. military export sales will be to these countries, while Latin America, the Near East and Southeast Asia purchase less than 20 per cent of the total overseas military sales.

"A specific material market analysis for the next three years—developed in consultation with the State Department and members of industry—estimated over $5 billion, in specific product terms, of potential U.S. military export sales, including $3.5 billion in Europe and $750 million in the Far East."

"This estimate of our sales potential assumes that 75 per cent of the expenditures for force improvements made by major allies would be made in Europe or Japan, but that up to 25 per cent of their expenditures on such programs might go to the United States in the form of direct sales, licensing, and cooperative production arrangements," Nitze said.

Nitze, recognized as one of President Kennedy's chief planners, told the association, "As things stand today, the U.S. allies and others have a continuing need for well-equipped military forces for the defense of the free world."

"It is consistent with our foreign and defense policy for U.S. industry, in close coordination with the Government, to supply its share of the non-Communist world's requirements for military equipment."

Principal speaker today before the Export Meeting will be Maj. Gen. Joseph C. Caldara, assistant for mutual security, Office of the Air Force Deputy Chief of Staff for Systems and Logistics.

Love's Request To Be Below $140 Million

DENVER (AP) — Gov. John Love said today his request to the legislature for the general fund budget in the next fiscal year probably "will be a little below $140 million."

Such an appropriation would raise state spending to a record high. The general fund budget for the current fiscal year ending next June 30 is $133.8 million.

This is $13 million less than Love had requested and $9 million below what former Gov. Steve McNichols had recommended in a farewell message.

The legislature's joint budget committee last week reported the state general fund may have a possible deficit of $1.2 million when the next fiscal year opens.

In the 1962-63 fiscal period about $120 million was appropriated for the general fund. Revenues that year dropped $6 million below expectations, and the state had to dip into the $10 million revolving fund cash reserve.

The governor said he will continue to study ways of reducing expenditures but has no new plans for economizing now.

SCORNED SCONE STONE

LONDON (UPI) — A sign reading "stolen in 1296" was found Sunday on the stone of Scotland which rests in London's Westminster Abbey.

A Scottish youth arrested later and charged with using insulting words and behavior.

Local Woman Found Guilty of Careless Driving

Nancy Sue Folsom, 31, 115 Tyler Place, was found guilty Monday by Justice of the Peace James F. Quine Jr. of careless driving on North Nevada Avenue and fined $25, plus $4 court costs.

Fortino Mirelez, 24, and Vito S. Vitano, 21, both of Ft. Carson, were ticketed on South Nevada Avenue Oct. 19 by State Patrolman J. Fred Henderson. Mirelez for permitting misuse of license plates, and Vitano for misuse of license plates.

Judge Quine gave each a 30-day sentence, suspended if each paid a $5 fine and costs of $4 by Nov. 1.

Traffic violations on two counts brought fines of $5 on each count and $4 costs to two persons.

Thomas S. Corrigan, 16, of 3948 Magnolia St., for careless driving, and for driving a vehicle without a valid operator's license on his person.

Patrolman B. H. Felice cited Corrigan Oct. 11 on Acacia Drive.

For having no emergency equipment on his vehicle, Donald H. Daniels, 26, 2329 Bonfoy Ave., was fined $5 and $4 costs for careless driving Sunday on Colorado 27.

Ticketing officer was patrolman J. D. Morrissey.

Door Rapping Scares Burglar From Break-in

Police this morning reported a break in at the Manhattan Lounge, 14 E. Pikes Peak Ave. One of the owner's of the lounge, Wilford Francis Purcell of 725 N. Cascade Ave., told officers he heard the sound of glass breaking in the kitchen while seated in the lounge early this morning.

He went to investigate and saw a man shining a flashlight in the kitchen.

Purcell rapped on the door to the kitchen with a cane and then ran to the front of the lounge to call the police.

The man, who was reported to be wearing bib overalls, apparently became frightened and ran, breaking a metal door and door frame on his way out of the building, police said.

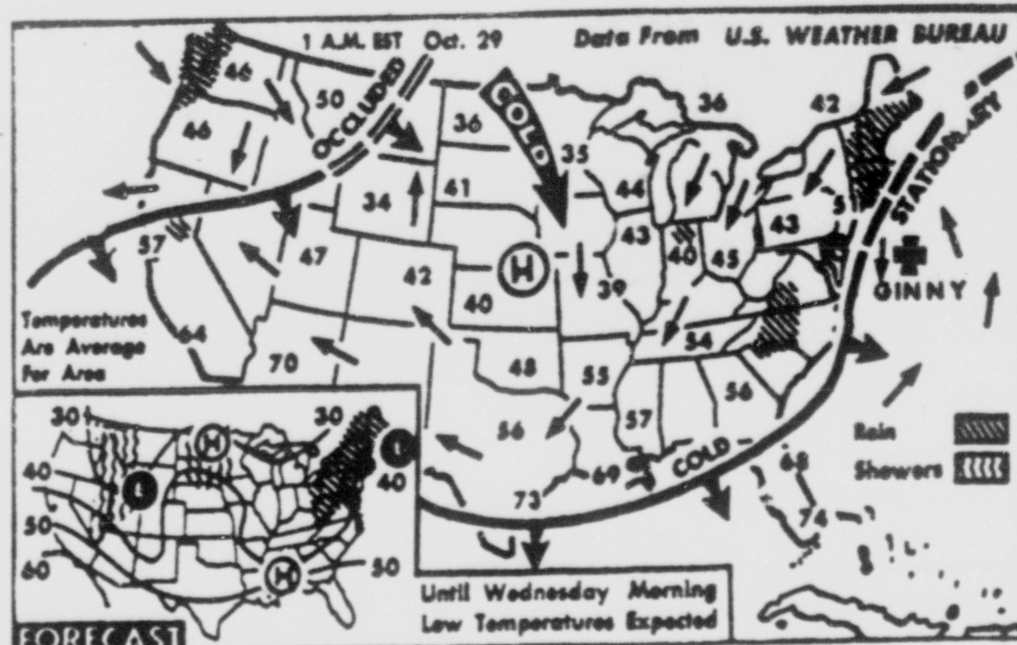

Broken glass from a fluorescent light bulb was found on the floor of the kitchen. Police broke the light while climbing into the kitchen thru a skylight.

Gremlins Get Him, Portland Man Says

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Some days it doesn't pay to get out of bed, Warren Skilling is convinced. With his wife out of town, he had to get his own breakfast. He decided to make some toast. The bread had molded. Willing to settle for cereal and bananas, he found the bananas were rotten.

Oh, well, at least he figured he could have some coffee. He made some, picked up the cup, turned around and bumped into a clothes tree, spilling his coffee and breaking the tree.

Noticing that the house was chilly, he discovered the furnace was out. He abandoned all ideas of eating at home and started to drive to work. But the car developed carburetor trouble. Then, en route to the garage, the horn started blowing and wouldn't stop.

WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Hurricane Ginny will bring rain to New England and the middle Atlantic coastal states Tuesday night. The rain will be accompanied by high tides and winds. Showers are forecast for the central Ap-palachians, the northern Plains and the northern and central Rockies. High elevations in the Rockies will have snow flurries. It will be cooler east of the Mississippi; warmer in the northern Plains and upper Mississippi valley. (AP Wirephoto Map)

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field)

An inclement weather scene developed across the eastern half of the nation this morning. Cold air swept southward to the Gulf Coast as Hurricane Ginny lashed eastern New England with heavy rains and gale-force winds.

During the night, the south-eastern tip of New England was buffed by winds up to 64 miles an hour and general rains of one to two and a half inches.

Moderate rain fell northward into central Maine where snow was reported in the Highlands.

Light to moderate rains also occurred in the Carolinas and Virginia as a new low seemed to be forming off the coast.

A clear dome of high pressure covered the central states but the far west was mostly cloudy with light rain along the northern Pacific coast.

Widespread frost and freezing temperatures developed thru the upper and middle Mississippi Valley and southward into the Ozarks.

The cold air picked up moisture as it crossed the warm waters of the Great Lakes and produced showers and thundershowers southeastward into the Appalachians. Some sleet was mixed with rain in Chicago this morning and snow flurries were reported southward to the mountains of West Virginia.

New Soldiers At Carson Get Special Training

Eight weeks of advanced individual training with Ft. Carson's 5th Infantry Division Military Police Company is scheduled for a group of 65 new soldiers at the post. Another score of troops is scheduled to arrive here soon for similar training.

General military training, along with police work, is included in the course of instruction. Strict discipline is emphasized and meticulous appearance is maintained by daily inspections.

Classes in basic military police training cover the Military Police Corps history, patrolling, completing forms and records, taking statements, desk procedures and apprehending suspects.

In the more advanced classes, the new MPs will learn hand and arm traffic signals, riot control, interrogation, land navigation, road and route reconnaissance driving training, vehicle maintenance and vice control.

Physical conditioning is stressed during the eight weeks. In addition to daily physical training classes, the MPs will learn judo and make long road marches.

A three-day field problem during the sixth week of training will test how well the new MPs have learned their subjects. A hectic eighth week will climax the course with a four-hour road march, gas chamber exercise, 45 caliber pistol qualification and written tests.

Following the course, the new MPs will be assigned to either the 5th MP Company, or to Ft. Carson's other Military Police unit, the 19th MP Company.

According to Sgt. L.C. Edward W. Jones, 5th MP Company training NCO, prior civilian police experience will prove valuable to some of the trainees.

Two of the new soldiers served as civilian police officers prior to their assignment here. Pvt. Frank W. Mott was a sheriff in Bainbridge, New York, and Pvt. Eric F. Arrowsmith can draw on his seven years experience as a patrolman with the Philadelphia police.

Influence Scandal Probe Launched in U.S. Senate

which he had a financial stake. Baker has denied any pressure tactics.

The case has been followed by disclosure that Baker was a moving spirit in the organization of an exclusive Capitol Hill group known as the Quorum Club, Inc., at a hotel across the street from the Senate Office Building. Its membership included Congress members and lobbyists.

He also has been named as the unsalaried secretary of a travel agency which numbered Congress members and lobbyists among its clients.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, asked Monday that the investigation also look into the affairs of Mrs. Elly Rometsch, attractive German brunette who was shipped home after allegedly bragging of amorous adventures with Washington figures.

One of the unconfirmed rumors was some members of Baker's circle were on good terms with Mrs. Rometsch, 27, and that she was often seen at the Quorum Club.

"Members of Congress had the public are entitled to know whether there was any element of security violation concerned in this speedy and hitherto unpublicized deportation," Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, told the House Monday.

The West German defense minister identified the statuette as Mrs. Elly Rometsch, 27. He said she and her husband had been called home last August on the basis of intelligence reports about her behavior.

The defense minister said the woman had no contacts with persons from the Soviet bloc and "the whole thing seems harmless."

Sgt. Rometsch had been assigned to the West German military mission in Washington. Officials here said the kiss-and-tell frau was sent packing after a quiet investigation by the FBI but that she was not deported.

Gross linked Mrs. Rometsch's case with the Senate investigation of the business affairs of Robert G. Baker, who resigned as Senate Democratic secretary after allegations he used influence to help his business interests.

Among the unconfirmed stories making the rounds is that Mrs. Rometsch was often at the Quorum Club, of which Baker was a charter member. It has been an elegant gathering place for lobbyists and members of Congress. Quorum employees insisted they never heard of her.

As for Sgt. Rometsch, the London Daily Mirror quoted him in a dispatch from Bonn as saying he divorced his wife last month—a month after returning from Washington—and adding: "I had no idea of irregular conduct."

"Then on Aug. 14 my superior told me that my wife had been indulging in amorous adventures. Seven days later Ellen and I were on our way back to Germany. My wife denied everything."

The Mirror said Mrs. Rometsch is hiding out with her 5-year-old son in a hut on her parents' farm.

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

World Economic Views

It is, we think, a matter of the line of demarcation is to be drawn, isn't known. Nor can it be discovered.

Usually nationalists take the view that our government at this time is "too big." They also say that taxes are "too high." But they do not seem able to provide a rule which is acceptable to themselves or to others whereby we may know unerringly just how big a government should be before it becomes "too big."

The free market advocate will call for a world market that is freed from all government restraints and regulations. The Keynesian and the central planner will also call for a world market. He will simply contend that to make this market a reality it will be necessary first to create a world government which can regulate all segments of the market.

In other words, agreement has been found as to the total character of economics. It is a world-wide problem and a world-wide solution is going to be sought. But the kind of solution to be found is obviously not going to please both the free market men and the government-control men.

Those who oppose a world government principally occupy two separate camps. There are the free market men who oppose a world government because of the controls it would clamp on the total economy. In lesser measure they also oppose government control and intervention in national and all local and domestic markets. They favor a free economy on principle. And their opposition to world government is merely a portion of their general opposition to all schemes which interfere with the right of a man to earn his own living, to bid on all goods and services, to own property privately and to manage his own life.

Also in opposition to world government are the nationalists. This group opposes world government because they see it as a rival to the sovereignty of national governments. Customarily, this group is also opposed to the growth of national governments beyond something that can only be described as some "minimal" government. Just what this "minimal" government may be, or where

Don't Participate

We've had some evidence that various pressure groups may, in the not too distant future, attempt to create incidents of one sort or another in an effort to awaken sympathy for a cause.

There are always some people who are willing to make some kind of public display in order to obtain publicity or in order to awaken an emotional response along the lines they favor.

We have seen picketing for a long time. The purpose of the picket is to create a disturbance, at least an emotional one. Pickets appear on both sides of many issues although it is principally a union boss device.

But there are not infrequent massings of persons in favor of peace, in favor of some particular race, in favor of higher wages, in favor of some personality. Also, there is apt to be a massing of persons in favor of war, in opposition to some particular race, and so on.

It is a very practical device, this massing of human beings. It dramatizes, it stigmatizes, it is very apt to create a conviction of the sincerity of the protestors, although they may simply be cunning and devious.

Since things of this sort have happened in the past and since they may happen in the future, we thought it might be helpful to offer a bit of advice as to what you can do if someone pickets, or demonstrates, or marches, or creates a disturbance in an effort to create an effect upon you, and especially to win your support. If you wish to be effective and are opposed to this sort of thing, there is one bit of very sound advice we have to offer. Don't do the same thing in reverse. That is, if a group gathers to agitate for peace, and you don't approve of this, the way to meet it head on is not to agitate against peace agitators. Rather, it is to stay home and mind your own business.

The same general rule can be applied in every case. Public demonstrators have only one stock in trade. They count on your willingness to be impressed either for or against what they are doing. If you approve, they are delighted. If you disapprove, especially if you disapprove openly, they are almost as happy as if you had approved. They want your emotional and physical involvement. It is the energy they seek and must use if they plan to achieve anything at all in the way of success.

So, if there is some public demonstration which you deplore, don't go hanging around to find out how much impact it may be having. Go home and stay there. You might even suggest to others that they do the same. Agitators for or against anything are counting on their ability to get people aroused. If you refuse to be aroused they will be defeated, regardless of the position they take.

In this day and age, when so much emphasis is placed on numbers, on masses, on excitement, on emotion; the effectiveness of non-participation and non-violence is greatly enhanced. The individual who can and will mind his own business is always in an advantageous position.

We are not trying to suggest that simply by ignoring a problem that exists, somehow it will disappear. But it is true that problems which are not enlarged upon and dramatized and

TEA TIME

To the Editor:

The Boston Tea Party was mainly the effect of taxation without representation.

The British were pikers compared with some of our public officials in office today.

Amendment No. 1, passed by the people of Colorado, seems to be the main reason for the county tax hike. There seems to be a little spite involved with reprisals.

Manitou candidates are running for office who have stated openly and frequently that "the people don't know what is good for them." Perhaps they don't. We'll see after the polls close.

Manitou has many pressing problems that need solving in the very near future. The by-pass, where it goes, the interchange, where it goes, can make or break Manitou and not let anyone fool you on that.

There were quite a few vacant store buildings in Manitou last season. There will be more if the present trend continues. Higher and higher taxes, bond issues on the spur of the moment pulled out of a magician's hat, are not conducive to new business.

As for water rights, they expire after 20 years if they are not used. Manitou could have trouble with other water right holders when they start trying to impound and use water other parties have priorities on now.

I had a local attorney tell me once, "I like litigation, the more of it the better." That seems to be where Manitou is headed. . . plenty of litigation.

The election coming up in Manitou is not a social affair. It can make or break Manitou. There are candidates running for office who do believe that the people have a right to a voice in the affairs of their own as well as in the shaping of its future. Look them over.

over-emotionalized tend to solve themselves with the passing of time.

Human beings have never been without problems and a millennium of perfection is not visible in the foreseeable future. Each person has to decide whether he will be a part of some problem or a part of a solution. The non-participant in problem making, while he may not reduce a problem, at least doesn't cause it to increase.

We can think of no better advice for anyone, when some kind of public unpleasantness is in the offing, than to "stay out of it."

The Old Mountaineer

By FRANK McDONOUGH JR.

National divorce statistics were recently released from the west coast. It is as sad a commentary on present civilized society as could be made, and the figures for the immediate Los Angeles area are more than disgraceful. For every two marriages recorded in that area, there is one divorce filed. The entire nation can hardly be proud of its record because now there is one divorce granted for a fraction less than four marriages. These proportions have increased steadily and are continuing to increase. Add to these the unrecorded family separations, the actual divorces which are recorded as annulments and which are so recognized by any court in the land. After several hours of deep blank funk, during which he wandered aimlessly in the approaching darkness, I communicated to the world, he finally decided against divorce, and actually tells the world with ill-concealed pride of the Waltonian accomplishments of his fisherman.

Several times during a long life of domestic felicity, I had similar temptations. I married a sprig of a girl out of the West Virginia hills, and immediately taught her, from my limited knowledge, the rudiments of the piscatorial art. For long years now, and happy ones, we have enjoyed the companionship of whipping the streams from the Madison to the Rio Grande, casting into the surf of the Florida Keys, trolling in the waters of Corpus Christi Bay and competing in the Salmon Derby in Puget Sound. Invariably darkness would come, my masculine endurance was tempered by evening hunger and invariably my cry would go up, "When do we eat?" Just as invariably the answer would come, "I have just had another strike." I have often been tempted to join the Los Angeles colony of marital tramps, but never did.

We have boated together on the placid waters of our little lake atop the divide. But storms would come and the waves become as choppy and dangerous as those of the cliffs of Dover. Life is like that and the storms must be ridden until safer waters are reached. Comradeship in all things is a great tranquilizer, but there needs to be more than mere comradeship. Always there must be the constant iridescent glow of the filament of faith, so that the light of intelligence may guide us down the marital pathway. Today, it is too easy for the unthinking to escape from the ever-loosening marriage bonds. And too many of the thoughtless ones find that the rod and the staff of the welfare state comforts them in escaping the plain duties of married life, the cause he had been fishing there for half an hour and he wanted to get some worms for bait. So, as a dutiful wife, she took the rod, gave a couple of expert jerks on the line, and whammy! A giant rainbow of three pounds of fishy fury took hold and almost pulled her into the drink. She managed to win the battle after fifteen minutes or so, and in the meantime the dour looks of her husband darkened the sunny skies of the Crystal canon. Incredible as it may seem, the identical episode was repeated half an hour later, and she announced that she had nearly her allotted ten pounds and better quit. Every man knows the nonchalant manner in which even a good and dutiful wife might say this. I am not sure, but I would opine that under the statute all of this constituted extreme and repeated acts of cruelty, not to mention incompatibility, and would be so recognized by any court in the land. After several hours of deep blank funk, during which he wandered aimlessly in the approaching darkness, I communicated to the world, he finally decided against divorce, and actually tells the world with ill-concealed pride of the Waltonian accomplishments of his fisherman.

There are frivolous, as well as serious causes for divorce, and one may arise spontaneously and out of a clear sky. One of these more serious eruptions recently took place right in my own immediate family. Our son-in-law is a staid business executive, but he is also an inveterate fisherman. He and our daughter were fishing in the cold Snowmass waters on the western slope. This daughter of ours is rather well versed in western trout fishing ways, but she is neither inveterate nor ultra expert in the Isaac Walton technique, and she is not averse to stopping to pick an alpine flower or to gaze upon the sunlit glories of the high mountain peaks. He had been fishing one of those mountain stream glory holes where the depth of the pool under the big rock is unfathomable and then it tapers off to lashing, white-capped rapids at the lower end. She was passing him to go upstream, and he asked her to hold his rod for a moment be-

Thoughts by the Wayside

There seems no specific cure for the venom which underlies easy separation and easier divorce. There are palliatives which will help. Education and common sense help greatly. True friendship and comradeship will keep the keel of the boat rainer even. If each will cure his mark of felicity will be passed. But the greatest palliative of all is love. I believe in love as the true base and cure of the evil of divorce.

After reading the plaintive lament of Mr. S., I wondered how I have been able to survive to the age of 61 without belonging to a union. I have had to deal with and bargain with prospective employers for quite a few years. As a matter of fact, I began bargaining with prospective employers during the summer of 1920 and the toughest guy to bargain with I ever encountered was my dad, with whom I worked for several years. I always managed to get even with him on a golf course or playing pinocle.

Actually, I've never been a particularly astute bargainer either. I do not like to haggle and bicker and dicker. If I like the deal, I accept. If I do not like it, I refuse and that goes for making purchases, also. Once or twice I've refused offers of employment when I didn't know when or where I'd earn a dollar to go into an empty pocket and this reminds me of the time a prospective employer made me an offer which I felt was an insult. I refused and he increased the offer. I refused again and started to leave his office. He said, "You act like you don't want a job with my company. If that's the way you feel, why don't you say so?" I told him I decided I didn't want to work for him and he replied, "Well, why didn't you tell me that in the first place so I could make you a better offer?" I was a little startled but insisted that I'd decided not to work for him. At this point, he became remarkably affable and made me an offer I could not refuse. We managed to get along just fine, without a union, for several years.

I have no quarrel with collective bargaining on a voluntary basis if an employee wants somebody else to do his bargaining for him. I do, however, feel strongly about any system which makes an employee believe he is inferior, inadequate, incompetent and completely unable to take care of himself without the aid of a union. I have known many union workers who while insisting they are not plagued by an inferiority complex, provide classic demonstrations of their feeling of inadequacy.

A friend of mine was employed to do a certain kind of work for a large company. He had a positive genius for doing fine work under the most trying conditions. He could produce more in two hours than his fellow workers could produce in eight hours or more. I had an opportunity to talk with his immediate supervisor one day. I was told that the company would be happy to pay my friend double his salary if the company could get permission from the union but the union went to my friend and told him to reduce his production immediately, and that was when I lost a friend. He told me he owed a great deal to the union and his fellow workers and told him I felt sorry for him and hoped he would accept my sympathy, for whatever it was worth. The same to you, Mr. S. Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

LIBERTY

If the true spark of religious and civil liberty be kindled, it will burn. Human agency cannot extinguish it. Like the earth's central fire, it may be smothered for a time, but at some time or other, in some place or other, the volcano will break out and flame up to heaven.

My Sympathy

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Mr. S. is in trouble and he wrote to tell me about it. Without his union, as he called it.

Mr. S. would be at the mercy of his employer. If he were at the mercy of his employer, Mr. S. would starve to death, according to his own admission. Without his union, the children of Mr. S. would be in rags and hungry and would not be able to attend the socialist schools. The lives of Mr. S. his wife and children are dependent upon the efforts of his union and Mr. S. goes on and on, in this vein. Not once did he suggest that he might be able to EARN a decent living. Mr. S. obviously believes he is incompetent and worthless as an employee and that he would have a tough time remaining on the payroll of any business firm without the threat of union force to back him up.

Because of his predicament, Mr. S. would have me think kindly of unions. He has my sympathy. I'm sorry for his troubles.

For all I know, Mr. S. may believe I belong to some union which has promised to obtain a "living wage" for daily newspaper columnists. He may even imagine there is a union for the care and feeding of ghost town inhabitants but I suspect that Mr. S. is not really concerned with my problems and I also suspect that Mr. S. does not even recognize the obvious signs of his own inferiority complex.

After reading the plaintive lament of Mr. S., I wondered how I have been able to survive to the age of 61 without belonging to a union. I have had to deal with and bargain with prospective employers for quite a few years. As a matter of fact, I began bargaining with prospective employers during the summer of 1920 and the toughest guy to bargain with I ever encountered was my dad, with whom I worked for several years. I always managed to get even with him on a golf course or playing pinocle.

Actually, I've never been a particularly astute bargainer either. I do not like to haggle and bicker and dicker. If I like the deal, I accept. If I do not like it, I refuse and that goes for making purchases, also. Once or twice I've refused offers of employment when I didn't know when or where I'd earn a dollar to go into an empty pocket and this reminds me of the time a prospective employer made me an offer which I felt was an insult. I refused and he increased the offer. I refused again and started to leave his office. He said, "You act like you don't want a job with my company. If that's the way you feel, why don't you say so?" I told him I decided I didn't want to work for him and he replied, "Well, why didn't you tell me that in the first place so I could make you a better offer?" I was a little startled but insisted that I'd decided not to work for him. At this point, he became remarkably affable and made me an offer I could not refuse. We managed to get along just fine, without a union, for several years.

I have no quarrel with collective bargaining on a voluntary basis if an employee wants somebody else to do his bargaining for him. I do, however, feel strongly about any system which makes an employee believe he is inferior, inadequate, incompetent and completely unable to take care of himself without the aid of a union. I have known many union workers who while insisting they are not plagued by an inferiority complex, provide classic demonstrations of their feeling of inadequacy.

A friend of mine was employed to do a certain kind of work for a large company. He had a positive genius for doing fine work under the most trying conditions. He could produce more in two hours than his fellow workers could produce in eight hours or more. I had an opportunity to talk with his immediate supervisor one day. I was told that the company would be happy to pay my friend double his salary if the company could get permission from the union but the union went to my friend and told him to reduce his production immediately, and that was when I lost a friend. He told me he owed a great deal to the union and his fellow workers and told him I felt sorry for him and hoped he would accept my sympathy, for whatever it was worth. The same to you, Mr. S. Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

LIBERTY

If the true spark of religious and civil liberty be kindled, it will burn. Human agency cannot extinguish it. Like the earth's central fire, it may be smothered for a time, but at some time or other, in some place or other, the volcano will break out and flame up to heaven.

These Days

Odd Attitude Re Cubans

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

There is something fishy about our treatment of anti-Castro Cubans who have escaped to this country. Some of them have almost freedom of movement, and they travel between Florida and the countries of Central America with no effort to put fetters on them. But others, who have absolute proof of their loyalty to the anti-Castro cause, are shadowed and hector, and if they should ever leave the U. S. and return again they would be penalized with $5,000 fines or five years in jail, or both.

Take the contrasting cases of Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz and Manuel Artime, for example. Diaz Lanz, who was the first important figure in the anti-Batista revolutionary movement to suspect that Castro was a Communist, is virtually under house arrest in this country. Artime, on the other hand, is the fair-haired boy of our State Department, the leader whom we have blessed as the probable boss of the next invasion of Cuba, if and when it happens. As the chosen general of next summer's projected "expeditionary force," Artime can turn up in Nicaragua, or Guatemala, or anywhere he pleases, subject to no $5,000 fine.

These are Cubans who mutter that Artime's military ability is questionable; they will tell you that he joined forces with a rebel band on the fringes of Castro's stronghold in Cuba's Sierra Maestra at the tag end of the Batista regime, and that he was made a second lieutenant without fighting experience. They will also tell you that Artime's defection from the Castro cadres came late.

NO ROOM

Still, Artime had sufficient courage to serve as civil leader of the Bay of Pigs invasion, and one cannot argue against courage. The relevant questions to ask center not on Artime's date of defection from Castro but on his ability to build the best fighting force possible, and his willingness to establish and protect a post-Castro regime that will be something better than a Titoist version of what exists in Cuba today.

The worrisome thing about the situation is that there seems to be no room in the State Department-CIA-Artime coalition for Cubans who have offended the Casper Milquetoasts who frown on "premature" raids on Castro's fortress. Diaz Lanz was a bold man when he commanded the rebel air units in the campaign against Batista, and he was equally bold when he became the first defector.

A commercial pilot, Diaz Lanz used his skills under the Batista regime to ferry arms by air into the "Castro country" of the Sierra Maestra, landing on pocket-size airstrips at great risk to his own life. He believed thoroughly in the "revolution" until he had his ears opened to its secret communist orientation by the conversations he overheard while transporting Castro and his friends around the country. Appalled by what he had learned, he tried to warn anti-Communist members of Castro's cabinet. When they refused to listen, he fled Cuba in a small boat.

Diaz Lanz ought to be a hero to a Washington administration that is officially anti-Castro. But this "first defector" has been silenced by continuing to be told he complains that the U. S. is trying to collect a $2,000 fine from him for having flown over Havana in 1959 and "bombed" it with anti-Castro leaflets. The technical charge is that his pilot's license had lapsed.

HINDERED

Why are people like Diaz Lanz hindered in their efforts to carry on a struggle against Castro while others, such as Artime, are favored? There are Cubans who say it's all a question of political coloration. The State Department has a predilection for the Bosch-Betancourt type of Latin American politico who is loosely to be described as belonging to the "non-Communist left." Now, a Betancourt is preferable in Venezuela to a Castro or a Khrushchev, and it is the mark of prudence to deal with a Betancourt when he has achieved power by his efforts. But why connive to put the "non-Communist left" in power when it is a matter of starting from scratch? Why go out of our way to create Betancourts?

Artime's movement, the revolutionary recovery movement, is for private property, free enterprise, and other good things. But it is also for "regulations" of a type that would inevitably entail a lot of interference in the affairs of citizens. One does not expect democratic capitalism to be restored in Cuba overnight. But our State Department could at least favor democratic capitalism as a working direction, and not make it difficult for its proponents to play their part in the anti-Castro ranks.

Jimmy Stewart's next picture for 20th will be "Erasmus with Freckles." This time he'll play an eccentric professor of poetry who discovers his 8-year old son is a mathematical genius, a human electronic computer, who becomes a world sensation. One complication is that the son becomes distracted by a sexy movie star. The combination of Stewart, Producer Henry Koster, and Writer Nunnally Johnson clicked with "Mr. Hobbs Takes a Vacation" and "Take Her, She's Mine," so Richard Zanuck has put them together again. Koster goes to England to work with Nunnally on the script, and plans a side trip to Paris to visit with Deanna Durbin. Last heard from her was a Christmas card two years ago.

Latest news from the "Ig-uana" location south of the border has it that Richard Burton became enamored of the Casa Kimberly where he and Liz have holed up, and she's trying to buy it for him—mosquitoes and all. This, together with the 2 million she's supposed to have settled on Sybil to stay away, proves she's mad about the guy.

Jess E. Stearn, author of "The Sixth Man," a best seller, is about to do a book on the Richard Bennett family—papa, Constance, Joan and Barbara, the one who died. His next, however, will be "The Grapevine."

Paul Gallico arrives the 18th of next month to assist Walt Disney in getting "Thomasina" off the launching pad. He'll bring his new wife, a former baroness, along. His ex-mother-in-law, Adela Rogers St. Johns, occupied a villa next to theirs on the Riviera this summer. Diane Baker's off to Europe by her lonesome to rest after eight straight months of work. She's agreed to star in "Rebels Against the Light" for her friend Alexander Ramati, who came here from Poland 10 years ago and has a fascinating story.

Deke Heyward tells me his book "My Son, the Doctor" is out in paperback and Universal's eyeing it for Tony Curtis. "My next, 'Kiss Goodbye,'" has gotta do well. It's dirty." His 14-year-old son has an astronomical IQ, wants to be a political scientist. He got a letter from the President thanking him for his advice on integration. Says his dad, "I passed by as he was working on a second letter. All I could see was 'Mr. President, with regard to my last letter, I've changed my mind.' He's pushing foreign aid now. On his wall are three pictures: Alexander Hamilton, Jayne Mansfield, (because he's a boy) and Barry Goldwater."

Pageantry Faces Ancient British Changes for TV

By RAYMOND E. PALMER
LONDON (AP) — The movies and television are doing what centuries of history have been unable to do—they are changing patterns of British pageantry.

The planning of state occasions is in the hands of the Earl Marshall of England, a post traditionally held by the Dukes of Norfolk down the ages. Below and behind him in the planning come the members of the Heralds' College.

Thirteen officers comprise the college: three kings of arms—Garter, Clarenceaux and Norroy; six heralds—Windsor, Somerset, Lancaster, York, Chester and Richmond; and four pursuivants—Rouge Dragon, Bluemantle, Protullis and Rouge Croix.

"It's amazing the little changes we've had to make to cope with the filming and televising of ceremonial functions," says Sir Anthony Wagner, Garter king of arms.

"At the state opening of Parliament, for instance, we had to say, 'The research will be a move some of the ceremonies lot easier next time, because we into the center of Parliament so now have a complete filmed that it could be seen by the record in the archives.'

"And we have had to alter to run the film through and see parts of several ceremonies before the whole ceremonial played out, cause they looked awkward when viewed from above."

Sir Anthony cited the coronation ceremony. The coronation of Queen Elizabeth II in June 1953 took more than a year of planning from the time the Queen succeeded her father in February, 1952.

"We had to go back to old records and check the moves of everyone taking part," he said.

Msgr. W. H. Jones of Denver Addresses Catholic Women

"Go To The World With Love" assisting her group to care for And Charity" was the gist of the message of the Very Rev. Monsignor William H. Jones, armed forces Miss Dickey presented Mrs. Raymond D. Nixon, president of the District Council of Catholic Women an award meeting of the Colorado Springs District Council of Catholic Women, which was held in the Red Carpet Restaurant on Thursday. Speaking to an audience, which represented twenty affiliates and a large group of parish pastors, Msgr. Jones spoke of the unique role Christian women of America can play in helping to solve the problems of the world.

He declared: "Go to the people of the world with love and charity, instead of them coming to us in hate and envy. Begin today to think, wonder and analyze what I as a person can do to help the least of God's creatures." He cautioned that in a life where worldly pleasures are so engrossing, "Christians, think of the needs of neighbors and find Christ's face in the suffering faces of desolate men throughout the world." Msgr. Jones gave this challenge to all "who wished to live full and meaningful lives in a changing world."

Also speaking to the group was Sister Theresa of Our Lady of Victory Missionary Sisters. She recounted some of the activities in which the Sisters participate: teaching catechism to Catholic children not enrolled in parochial schools, and collecting baby layettes and used clothing for the needy. Helping the Sisters in a personal and financial way is the special project of the Council, Miss Elizabeth Dickey, director of the USO Club, was also a speaker and discussed the importance of continued help in

An unusual series of up-cuts in the trump suit by East enabled his partner, West, to score the setting trick against today's small slam contract with the singleton eight of spades.

West led the ten of hearts against six spades, although the eight of trumps would have been a much more effective choice. Declarer put up the dummy's ace of hearts and, observing that he had four top tricks available in the side suits, it appeared to him that the best play for the slam hinged on scoring all eight spades separately, i.e., via a complete cross-ruff.

South cashed the dummy's top club honors and discarded his remaining heart. Observing the fall of West's queen of clubs, declarer decided to ruff himself in with a small heart. The ace of diamonds was taken and a diamond trumped with the four of spades. Now, if just one more heart could be singled in with his six of spades, South could complete his crossruff with assured safety, for he would be down to the top five trumps.

East had other thoughts however, and, when the third round of hearts was led from dummy, he carefully trumped in with the nine of spades in order to prevent declarer from making good another small trump. South was obliged to overruff with the king of spades. A diamond was ruffed with the ten of spades and, on the next heart play, East ruffed with the seven of spades to force out the ace. Dummy was reentered by trumping another diamond but, when South tried to score his 12th trick by ruffing a club, West overruffed the six of spades with his singleton eight and declarer fell short of the goal.

BEASTLY TO BADGERS
YORK, England (AP) — Reports from Yorkshire and Cambridgeshire indicate that vandals have invaded nature reserves and been "beastly to badgers"—cutting down trees and bushes and destroying thriving colonies of the badgers by gas.

The badger still is officially unprotected in Britain and those who gas them claim to be protecting the farms and game preserves. A Ministry of Agriculture bulletin, however, states flatly that "the assertion that the badger is an enemy of the farmer will not stand up to impartial investigation. Badgers seldom kill poultry, never eat anything except carrion lambs and commonly feed on young rabbits, rats, mice, slugs, bees, wasps, earthworms, acorns and bluebell bulbs, rather than healthy lambs, fowl and birds."

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:
I ironed my husband's seersucker suit with a hot iron. It completely "flattened" the material. What can I do now? — Budgeteer

Dear Budgeteer:
You failed to say if your seersucker is synthetic or what. Once seersucker has been mashed flat, the best way I have found to remedy the situation is to wring a bath towel out in hot water. Lay it on your ironing board. Cover it with "another" piece of cotton cloth (A clean dish towel will do.) Lay the crushed seersucker on top of this and using a "thin" pressing cloth, "gently touch" your mashed material with a "warm" iron. The steam should bring back all the crinkles in the material (providing your seersucker wasn't synthetic and you melted it in the first place). Lots of crinkled crepe can be rejuvenated in this same manner. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I am a member of the National Institute of Dry Cleaning and would like to pass along this hint:

I have had so many complaints when we did not get a spot out of a housewife's dress or her husband's suit. Here is a little hint that has proven invaluable.

A piece of blackboard chalk is a wonderful idea for a woman to keep in the kitchen drawer. When there is an unusual certain spot... take the piece of chalk and draw an "X" over the spot which should have "special handling," or place a safety pin or piece of paper attached with a straight pin — at "least" the cleaners will know that this identified spot deserves special handling.

I along with all the other dry cleaners in the nation, would appreciate this hint being printed in your column so that we can service "complaints-with-a-SMILE!" —Dry Cleaners

Now aren't you nice?

Also, if a woman has the time it would be even better if she would mark the pinned-on slip of paper: "mustard," "wine," "gravy," etc.

And, ladies, on good clothes don't try to spot them yourself if you do not know the proper procedure. Lots of home quickie methods only set spots and make them impossible for any cleaner to remove. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I remove the printing from my rice, flour and other cotton know, the spots disappear — Sandra

Dear Sandra:
Thank you for this tip. I think you are a darling to pass along this emergency tip. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:
If you have a child in the family who has the flu or a cold:

Take a rubber band and put it around the outside of his drinking glass so that you can identify it. Also put rubber bands around the outside rim of his soup bowl and drinking cup.

This way you can immediately identify his glass and other containers, and no one else will drink or eat out of them. This eliminates spreading the germs to the other members of the family. —Grandmother Sadie

Pulp Cutters Outwit Hungry Bear

BARAGA, Mich. (AP) — A group of pulp cutters have outwitted a hungry bear—at least temporarily—in a contest over the workers' lunches.

When the men knocked off for lunch recently they found that the bear had smashed their food containers and eaten up the contents. The next day they locked their lunch pails in a car. At noon, they found the

Dictating Machine Observes Its 75th Birthday

NEW YORK (UPI)—The dictating machine, a brainchild of Alexander Graham Bell which has become an office fixture and which laid the groundwork for the phonograph industry, is 75 years old.
The occasion was marked recently with a satirical revue at New York's Plaza Hotel, tracing the history of the office and paraffin. The sound was cut into it with a stylus, activated by an air jet. The patent for this historical machine became basic for the entire phonograph industry.

In 1908, the company, operating as the Dictaphone Division of the Columbia Graphophone Company, replaced the hand crank with an electric motor. Recording cylinders were improved through the years but it wasn't until 1943 that they were eliminated altogether when Dictaphone introduced the first Time-Master dictating machine with its Dictabelt, a tiny plastic recording medium with visible tone grooves that produced high quality recordings. This provides a permanent record of dictation and can be easily mailed or filed.

The first transistorized dictating machine was marketed by Dictaphone in 1957. Another major advance came in 1962 with the appearance of a model one-third smaller than its predecessor. The Model-7 takes up less desk space than a letter, weighs only 7 pounds and is fully transistorized. A transcribing companion to this machine was introduced this year.

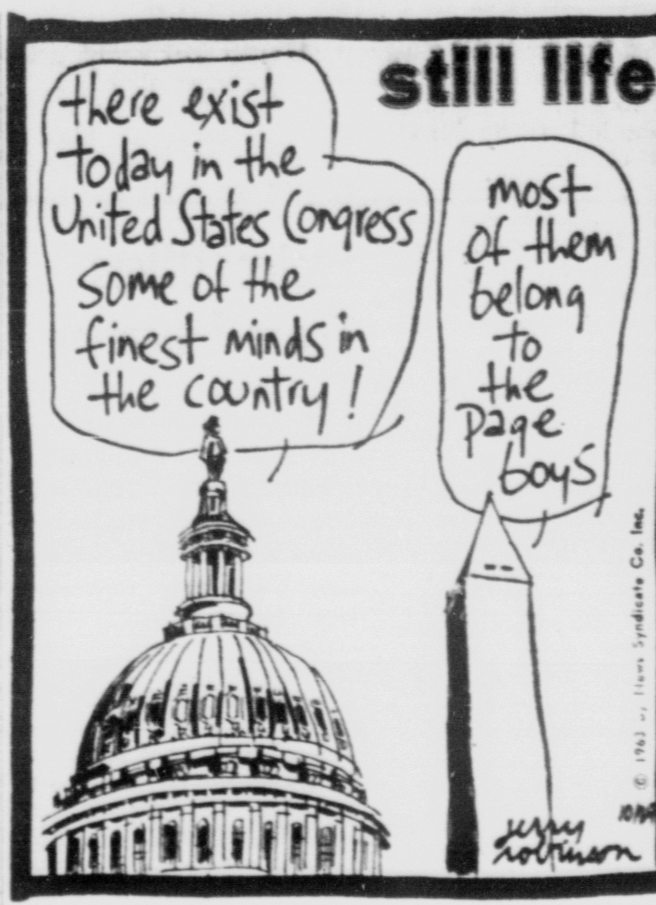

The dictating machine, besides its basic office communications function, now is being used widely in insurance claims statement-taking, post-operative dictation by doctors, police crime reports and travel use on planes and trains.

Radical improvements have been made in dictating machines over the 75 years. The original recording instrument built by the Bells and Tainter was hand-cranked with a recording cylinder made of beeswax.

Immigration Law Ruling To Be Made

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court agreed today to rule on constitutionality of a section of the Immigration and Naturalization Law that strips naturalized Americans of citizenship if they return to their country of origin and remain three years.

The ruling was asked by Mrs. Angelika L. Schneider, who was born in Bavaria, Germany, in 1934. In 1950 she became a naturalized American and four years later she was graduated from Smith College with a bachelor of arts degree.

In 1956 she returned to Germany to marry Dieter Schneider, a lawyer in Cologne. Three years later the American Consulate in Dusseldorf asked her to surrender her naturalization certificate. She did so under protest, then had attorneys begin action in lower federal courts.

Mrs. Schneider contended the nationality law section violates the Constitution by imposing cruel and unusual punishment. A special three-judge district court here ruled against her by vote of 2-1. The majority said the challenged section represented a constitutional exercise by Congress of its power to regulate foreign affairs.

Today's Supreme Court session was brief, and was unusual in that only six justices were on the bench. By court rules, six is a quorum.

QUESTION: One of my instructors at the university said that science is now replacing religion, and told us to forget about our "outdated religion." —D. K.

ANSWER: It is your instructor who is "outdated". In all generations there have been those who thought science would eliminate religion. As a matter of fact science is bringing to light truths which God established from the very beginning. You need have no fear of proven scientific facts discrediting your faith in God and His Son. It is only where men speculate and let their speculation go at variance with divine truth that they get in trouble. Remember, too, that the gospel of Jesus Christ is needed today as it has always been needed. Science has changed many of the conditions under which men live but it has not changed the human heart. We still need the cleansing and redeeming power of the Christ of Calvary. Man needs the good things science makes possible for living but all of these things will eventually pass away. Only through Christ are we prepared to live now, and only through Him can we be prepared for the life which is to come. Let me suggest that you show your instructors, and

Color Slides On Europe Shown at Club

Mrs. Claire Rutledge, a member of the Pikes Peak Camera Club, showed her colored slides of the Alps recently at the meeting of the Color Slide Club.

Mrs. Rutledge's slides included shots of her tour of France, Austria and Italy as well as Switzerland.

Members of her club and members of the Focus Club were special guests at the meeting, attended by more than 50 persons, at the West Side Library.

The "Open Class" presentations of colored slides at the meeting were judged on a point system including subject portrayal, color rendition and composition, technical quality and impact.

R. J. Green received the first award with 25 points for his slide entitled "North Tower."

Second place was a three-way tie with 24 points each by Hal Brown for "Where the West Begins," Oscar Steinhorst for "Picture Rock," and Irma Tesker for "Mountain Lake."

In third place were Maridel Green and Mildred Steinhorst who scored 22 points each. Their slides were entitled "Day's Work Done" and "Summer's End."

Honorable mentions went to the following persons who scored 21 points each: Elizabeth Gleason, "In the Spotlight" and "Beavers Mirror," Elmer Tesker, "Step Up Please," Mildred Steinhorst, "Woodland Cascade," and Bud Behm, "Honey" and "Moles Lake."

At the Nov. 22 meeting, the program will be on "Judging the Judges" with slides entered in the nature subject class. Members of other clubs are invited.

AFA Holds Secret Drill As Army Contest Nears

With a fine 34-7 win over a strong Boston College team setting the stage, Coach Ben Martin's Air Force Academy Falcons prepare this week for the one they've been waiting for since 1959—Saturday's clash with Army in Chicago's Soldier Field.

It will be the second meeting between these two service academy eleven—the first ending in a 13-13 tie in New York, in 1959. This year's classic promises to be a crackerjack with the two squads picking up where they left off in 1959 in a "winner take all" battle.

The game rates as a nearly dead even affair, as Army brings a fine 5-1 record into the contest with only a loss to powerful Minnesota marring the record book. On the other hand, the Falcons are sporting a 4-2 mark with outstanding wins over Washington and Nebraska—both ranked in the Top Ten nationally at the time—as their main claim to fame.

Army proved that they have similar disrespect for national ratings as they knocked off eighth-ranked Penn State three weeks ago. Army's other wins have come at the expense of Washington State, Boston University, Cincinnati and Wake Forest.

The Falcons came thru the Boston College encounter with flying colors, holding BC's touted Jack Concannon to only nine completions, and piled up 431 yards with a devastating ground game in smothering the Eagles.

Wargo, a Whittier, Calif.

But with the Army battle looming on the horizon, Martin cut short the celebrations and started to work immediately in laying battle plans for the Black Knights. Monday, Martin took his charges behind closed doors—the first secret practice ever held at the Air Force Academy.

The popular AFA coach indicated that another secret workout is scheduled for Thursday as the Cadets are developing some new wrinkles in their game for the Army skirmish.

Martin gave an inkling of what he expects from Army when he said, "West Point has one of the strongest lines we will face this year. Nobody, including a very strong Minnesota team, has been able to move the ball up the middle on them. We've seen bigger lines (Nebraska), but Army's is extremely strong physically." Martin wouldn't comment if this means the Falcons will take their aerial game out of wraps for Saturday, but fans may certainly expect to see a wide open attack on the part of the Falcons.

While drubbing their East Coast rivals, Martin uncovered a pair of new running sensations, fullback Steve Amador and halfback Paul Wargo. Amador, who had been a defensive specialist only got his first taste of offense this year against the Eagles and the Mansfield, Ill., junior blasted for 86 yards thru a tough BC line in 15 carries, scoring two touchdowns in ground game in smothering the Eagles.

Texas Nation's Top Squad

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr. Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas still is No. 1 in college football, but who's No. 2? The ballots says Illinois but the voters are in sharp disagreement.

One member of the Associated Press football board of sports writers and broadcasters put it this way: "Snow White Texas No. 1, followed by the following dwarfs."

The Texas Longhorns, who won their sixth game of the season by the rather close score of 10-6 against dangerous Rice, received 49 first place votes and two seconds from the 51 AP board members voting. That gave them 506 points of a possible 510 on the basis of 10 for a first-place vote, nine for second, etc. down to one for 10th.

Illinois got one vote for first, and the bulk of the seconds, 19, but was listed at every spot except ninth. Navy, which drew the other first place vote, was named for each of the other nine places at least twice. Auburn, Alabama and Wisconsin received votes for every place from two through 10. Votes for Mississippi, which wound up third, and for Oklahoma were almost as widely scattered.

Illinois moved up on the strength of its 18-12 Friday night victory over UCLA and Mississippi whipped Vanderbilt 27-7 Saturday. Each is undefeated but has played one tie. Unbeaten Auburn was idle last week but advanced from eighth to fifth.

The top ten teams and points:

Team	Pts.
1. Texas	508

Young America Leagues Nearing Season Climax

This Saturday finds 16 games scheduled in Young America Football. This will be the final week of competition for the Lightweight Division, with the exception of the playoff game scheduled for Nov. 9. The remainder of the Lightweight teams will finish their schedule Saturday.

Boys are reminded to check in their equipment following their last league game. Dressing rooms will be available so they will be able to change clothes and turn in their football uniforms during the next two Saturdays between 10 a.m. and noon at Memorial Park.

Two games will be highlighted on Saturday's schedule. In the Middweight Division the Braves and Falcons clash in what will probably determine the league championship, scheduled for Field No. 5 at 8:30 a.m.

Wasson-Centennial Contest Should Decide League Title

By TOM CUSHMAN Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The aged argument of offense versus defense comes up once again this weekend as Pueblo Centennial and Wasson go about the business of deciding the South Central League champion for 1963.

Contrasting styles of play leave Saturday's crucial clash between the two teams shrouded in mystery. Centennial, an explosive club which has sometimes seen its defense go awry, is the conference's most proficient offensive organization. Wasson, meanwhile, has been stout defensively but the Thunderbirds have had their problems in navigation near the goal.

Adding to the confusion is the fact that both clubs reversed those tendencies last weekend. Centennial, thrown against defensively rugged Pueblo Central, stood toe to toe with the Wildcats and eventually whipped them at their own game, 14-7.

Meanwhile, Wasson stirred up its latent offense to pound out a 27-0 victory over Palmer in a real head-knocker in Colorado Springs. It was the Thunderbirds' fourth shutout in eight games and second straight, but it was also the first time they had scored over two touchdowns in a conference contest.

Other weekend games involved the second division teams with both Pueblo East and Pueblo South posting their first league victories of the campaign. East overcame the effects of losing five fumbles to trip Trinidad 20-13 while South used a 42 yard return of an intercepted pass by Hank Cervantes to overcome Grand Junction, 12-6.

This week the conference has three Friday games scheduled preceding the Saturday clash between the T-Birds and Centennial at Public Schools Stadium in Pueblo. Palmer will attempt to protect its third place slot and retain a chance to tie for second when the Terrers host Trinidad at Wasson Stadium Friday. The same night Central travels to Grand Junction and South and East meet in Pueblo.

Centennial, which has been one of the SCL's most liberal teams defensively, limited Central to a total of 119 yards last Friday and the Bulldogs' line gave up a mere 60 over the four quarters. Still the Wildcats stirred up the crowd of 11,000 by blocking a first quarter Centennial punt and then moving for a go-ahead touchdown with Bruce Heath plunging over from the two.

The Bulldogs, stymied themselves for more than a quarter, suddenly pulled even in typical fashion. Bob Armijo, Centennial's private bolt of lightning, struck on a 53 yard blast off the right side of the Central line to contribute six points toward deadlocking the score with 3:29 left in the half. Charles Mastrini, who leads the league in conversions, added the first of his two kicks for the evening to send the teams to the dressing rooms at 7-7.

That's the way it stood until midway in the final period when a Centennial punt was accidentally touched by a Central player and recovered by the Bulldogs at the Wildcats' 15. Three plays later halfback Steve Trinklein bucked across from the six and it was all over.

Wasson shocked better than 10,000 Colorado Springs fans by taking the opening kickoff and plunging downfield on a 73 yard march that started the T-Birds to victory. Halfback Jim Smith caught a pair of key passes before plunging the final four yards to tally a second period score for the 'Birds and then made a fine defensive play to halt a Palmer drive in the third period. Wasson marched from its own 10 at that point to push over the clincher in the final quarter.

T-Bird fullback, Mike Teague, ran for 134 yards in 28 carries to close within 67 yards of the school rushing record as the 'Birds compiled an impressive drive in statistics. Palmer got fine running from Wardell Patterson and excellent all around play from injured Ray Cool as well as a terrific defensive game from end Bobby Joe Williams. Teague was complimented by Smith's 62 yards, the five-for-seven passing of quarterback Clay Chambers, and outstanding work by the entire Wasson line.

League Race Finis Indians, PPL Champs, Ready for State Clash

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

It's all over but the anti-climactic final games in the Pikes Peak League race for loop titlist Cheyenne Mountain. However, Coach Eldon Helm's high-flying Indians now are awaiting the outcome of other league races around the state which will determine their opponents in the state Class AA championships.

Meanwhile, Cheyenne will be warming up for the state finals this next weekend after clinching the crown for the second time in the school's history with an impressive 41-13 triumph over the PPL's defending champ, Air Academy High.

The Tribe has compiled seven devastating triumphs by overwhelming margins, averaging 53.1 points per game while allowing only six points per opponent. In other games last Wednesday, the loop's most improved team from Harrison remained in contention for the PPL runner-up slot as the Panthers were engaged in non-league warfare, destroying highly respected Rocky Ford, 26-0.

Ed Maxwell's Huskies toppled the personnel potent Gladiators of Widefield, 13-7, to deadlock the Panthers for second place in league standings.

Both Harrison and Florence have 4-1-1 won-lost-tied records. Meanwhile, the spirited Trojans from Fountain finally managed to snap a six-game losing streak with a 20-6 win over winless Leadville. And Salida whacked Manitou Springs, 33-0, to round out last week's PPL slate.

This Saturday the Indians journey to Florence for their last league game of the season.

A Pro's Pro

An entire era died with Edward Bishop Dudley this past weekend. Big Ed Dudley was the era.

Somehow the cold facts of past records can not fully describe this man who carried a gentle nature within a big, strong body of an outdoorsman.

To many who knew him, Big Ed Dudley was synonymous with the game he loved so very much. He had played golf for 51 years and his name was on many of the trophies from the best known tournaments of the world.

But perhaps even more significant of this man than the playing he did was the unwritten title given him by fellow golfers. To be known as "a pro's pro" is probably the highest achievement anyone can attain — no matter what the profession.

For eight consecutive years he was elected president of the PGA, the ruling body of professional golfers. This will undoubtedly never be matched again.

The height of his playing career came in the early 1930s, but he was known even more as a teacher of the game. He gave his secrets of the game to thousands and serious golfers from throughout the world came for his advice.

Two separate incidents just this past year, tho, probably typify this man.

The first happened early in the summer. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was at the Air Force Academy to dedicate the golf course there that bears his name. Thousands came to the Academy to watch the ceremony, but Eisenhower could not find Dudley among them. Big Ed was forced to miss the event because he was attending to the many details of running a tournament at his home course, the Broadmoor.

Despite a stop-watch schedule, Eisenhower had one request of his hosts. He was taken to the Broadmoor to visit for a few minutes with his teacher. Dudley had worked many hours on the practice tee with the President when he used to divide his time between the Broadmoor and the Augusta National in Georgia, where Ike spent his vacations.

It was a big act of tribute from a big man to someone he admired.

The other happened shortly during the playing of the Denver Open for professionals.

During the winter months in the late 1950s, Big Ed was also a teaching pro at the Dorado Beach Club in Puerto Rico. While there, he met and coached a skinny little guy who was trying to bring himself and his family out of poverty by playing golf.

Dudley worked with Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez on the thing he knew best — hitting the ball a long way off the tee. Rodriguez finally attained the

A three-fall main event between two giant heavyweights, two preliminary bouts, and a wild five-man free-for-all will be presented tonight at the City Auditorium as professional wrestling returns to Colorado Springs.

The first battle is slated for 8:30 p.m. and tickets will be available at the City Aud box office.

A rough and tumble bout is promised in the main event, with popular Alex Perez meeting Badman Bill Fletcher in the best of three falls over a one hour time limit.

Perez is billed as one of the most outstanding wrestlers ever to come from below the Rio Grande. The 230-pound native of Monterey, Mexico, started his career in the high game just after his family moved to Amarillo, Tex., when he was but 13 years old. Starting in amateur boxing, he traveled to the national competition in Golden Gloves and fought main events in the New York's Madison Square Garden before turning to wrestling.

He will be up against a veteran performer in Fletcher, who has been wrestling for 15 years in the pro ranks and also has past Carnival experience to add to his tricks. Fletcher is a real villain and a target of fans' wrath.

Also on the card will be a one-fall match between Danny Loos Jr. of Denver and Danny Little Bear, an Indian from Stillwater, Okla. Loos comes into the bout at 225 and Little Bear at 215 pounds.

In another prelim, popular Rocky Smith, 214 pounds, meet Jose Quintero, 226, in the best two of three falls with a 45 minute limit.

And what could steal the spotlight of the entire show will be the opener when five huskies enter the ring at one time. Entered in the free-for-all will be Smith, Little Bear, Lees, Quintero and Fletcher — making a combined weight of over 1,100 pounds.

DENVER (UPI)—The official who produced the Denver Open Golf Tournament in 1963 said Monday there were "individuals and companies" here who want to maintain the annual tournament.

Herb Wolff, president of Presentation Services, declined to name them, however.

Noble Chalfant, head of Golf Inc., which hired Presentation Services to handle the 1963 tournament, said earlier Monday his firm would not pick up the Professional Golfers Association option on dates for a 1964 tournament.

Wolff acknowledged the reason given by Chalfant for the financial failure of past tournaments—the absence of big name stars because of conflicting special golf spectacles—cost an estimated $20,000 in a day and a ticket sales this year.

Denver has until midnight Friday to pick up the date options Chalfant said his firm will not seek.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Heavyweight Wayne Bethea was scheduled to talk to a grand jury today about his Oct. 14 fight with Ernie Knox, a Baltimore boxer who died 32 hours after Bethea knocked him out.

Doctors said Knox, 26, suffered a brain hemorrhage.

The fight at the Coliseum was a scheduled 10-rounder. Knox was knocked out in the ninth round.

After two weekly sessions, the calibre of bowling in the Pikes Peak Region Junior Traveling League perked up last Saturday with Bruce Kolisek of the Ent AFA Lanes team leading the way with a 689 (handicap) series. The 16-team traveling league bowled at Fountain Valley Bowl and Classic Bowl.

Alan Pinder of Fountain Valley Bowl No. 2 recorded a 678 to place second in boy's division. Bob Gosline, bowling on the Community Center Lanes team from Air Force Academy, posted the highest game via a 263 effort. Gene Graig of Peak Bowl No. 2 hit for a 259 game to place second.

Marcia Armknecht led the way for the girls with a 392 set on the Fountain Valley Bowl No. 1 team, followed by Susan Rowley's 587 on the Classic Bowl No. 2 squad. Miss Rowley hit for the high game with 220, followed by Miss Armknecht's 218.

Composed of 108 top young kegglers, the traveling loop is slated for 30 weeks. Tony O'Connor, Bowl-Mor No. 2, registered the highest scratch series of 601 paced by a 236 high game and will be awarded a Youth Bowling Association (YBA) "600" scratch series patch.

This Saturday the traveling league will conduct its weekly competition at Ent AFB Lanes and Trail Bowl.

DID YOU KNOW? — The highest triple score ever recorded by a Woman's International Bowling Congress (WIBC) member was the 227 triplicate scored by Nancy Storch Ivy of Hobbs, N. NOW AVAILABLE TO COLORADO MOTORISTS

Low Cost Auto Insurance

GEICO RATES ARE LOWER THAN BUREAU RATES* BY

AS MUCH AS 30% FOR COLLISION AND COMPREHENSIVE

AND AS MUCH AS 25% FOR LIABILITY COVERAGES

FOR THE STANDARD FAMILY AUTOMOBILE POLICY

*COMPARE GEICO RATES WITH BUREAU RATES

GEICO RATES IN COLORADO ARE 30% lower than Bureau Rates for the Collision and Comprehensive coverages and 25% for the Liability coverages. Bureau Rates are the rates for automobile insurance filed with State Insurance Departments by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters and the National Automobile Underwriters Association for their member and subscribing companies, and Bureau companies using the Safe Driver Plan adjust these Bureau Rates upwards or downwards depending upon the driving record of the insured.

HOW THE "SAFE DRIVER PLAN" AFFECTS THE COST OF YOUR AUTO INSURANCE

GEICO DOES NOT USE THE "SAFE DRIVER PLAN" — However, most companies charging Bureau Rates do use the "Safe Driver Plan" in Colorado which requires that the rate established as the Bureau Rate be increased as much as 150% and reduced by only 15% depending upon the driving record of the insured. Remember, GEICO does not use the "Safe Driver Plan" and when you insure with GEICO, your rates are not increased because of your driving record as is required under the "Safe Driver Plan."

NOW COMPARE DIFFERENCES FROM THE BUREAU RATE!

COVERAGE	BUREAU RATE WITH "SAFE DRIVER PLAN"	GEICO RATE WITHOUT "SAFE DRIVER PLAN"
Liability	15% reduction to 150% increase	25% reduction
Medical Payments	15% reduction to 150% increase	25% reduction
Collision	15% reduction to 150% increase	30% reduction
Comprehensive	No reduction or increase	30% reduction
Uninsured Motorists	No reduction or increase	25% reduction
Towing and Labor	No reduction or increase	30% reduction

(GEICO also gives you the usual additional savings of 10% for COMPACT CARS and further substantial savings when MORE THAN ONE CAR is insured.)

BEFORE YOU BUY AUTO INSURANCE ELSEWHERE, or renew your present policy, be sure you check GEICO's benefits and savings. You will receive exact GEICO rates for your car, plus complete information on how GEICO saves you money, the broad protection you get, and GEICO's country-wide personal claim service.

Edward J. Rodgers Is the Singer

It will be Edward J. Rodgers, not Edward F. Rodgers, singing in "La Traviata" when it is presented by the Colorado Springs Opera Association.

The two names led to an erroneous address for the bass soloist in a Leisuretime story Saturday.

Edward J. Rodgers, local FBI office manager, does not live at 1408 E. Uintah St. That's the home of Edward F. Rodgers, salesman with May Realty.

Wilson's Last Home Made Into Shrine

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beginning Monday, there'll be another shrine for Washington tourists: Woodrow Wilson's last home.

It's a handsome red brick house of Georgian design at 2340 S Street in northwest Washington. There the World War I President lived from March 4, 1911 until he died Feb. 3, 1924.

It is a memorial to a marriage as well as to a statesman. Among the relics the visitors will see is the high-backed, leather-covered chair used by

Wilson at White House Cabinet meetings. On the back is a card in Wilson's handwriting which reads:

"Presented to my dear wife whose inspiration meant so much while I occupied this chair, Woodrow Wilson."

She was Edith Bolling (Galt) Wilson, whose will on her death in 1961 gave the house to the National Trust for Historic Preservation to be a memorial in honor of her husband. The National Trust has now prepared it for the public.

Wilson bought the house sight unseen in 1920 as he was preparing to turn the White House over to Warren G. Harding. He knew Mrs. Wilson would find it; she had found it while house-hunting.

"The one house I felt would qualify in every particular," Mrs. Wilson wrote in her memoirs 18 years later.

"Bless his dear heart! I was overcome."

She also told how, the first day they visited the house together, the President had a Secret Service man scoop up a small piece of sod "which, with a key to one of the doors, my husband presented to me—the sod representing the land, and the key the house."

It was an old Scotch custom, that the Scotch-descended Wilson remembered.

Mrs. Wilson, whom the President married in 1915 after the death of his first wife, described in her memoirs the suffering that Wilson went through after his paralytic stroke in 1919.

She stood guard at the White House between him and all the troubles she could, and some politicians jealously accused her of interfering in matters of state.

By her own account:

"I studied every paper, sent from the different secretaries or senators, and tried to digest and present in tabloid form the things that, despite my vigilance, had to go to the President."

"I, myself, never made a single decision regarding the disposition of public affairs. The only decision that was mine was what was important and what was not, and the very important decision of when to present matters to my husband."

In the pleasant house on S Street there were no great matters of national urgency, but Mrs. Wilson maintained to the end a close watch over her beloved invalid.

One of the memories she treasured over the years was their arrival in S Street just after Harding had been inaugurated, and the Wilsons' days of glory were over.

A crowd of 20,000 people filled the street in front of their new home, full of affection and warmly cheering.

"We almost wept," Mrs. Wilson said.

Personality Study Comes Up With Some Surprises

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — A University of California psychology study has turned up some unexpected findings on the subject of personality.

For one thing, human beings seem to be mentally tougher in facing life's strains than current theories expect.

For another, a large number of young people who grew up leading easy, confident lives changed into brittle discontented adults.

The UC study was based on a cross-section of individuals who were observed and tested from infancy to age 18, and again at 30. The studies spanned 35 years and were carried out by the Institute of Human Development at UC's Berkeley campus.

Dr. Jean W. MacFarlane, research psychologist, said many of those persons in the UC studies led strained, unhappy or erratic lives in their younger years. Yet a high proportion of these surprised researchers by working out their problems and developing into stable productive and self-accepting parents and job-holders.

Among them were chronic rebels who had been expelled from high school; academic failures; unhappy, withdrawn schizoids; and one socially inept girl with extremely high blood pressure, which later became normal.

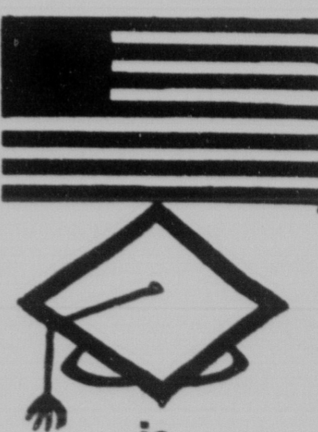

But others failed to achieve their potential after excelling during childhood. "Included were boys who were school leaders and athletes, and good-looking, socially skillful girls," Dr. MacFarlane said.

Perhaps, she explained, they had too much success too soon. This might lead to unrealistic expectations about life, or they may not have had enough stress in growing up "to temper strength or force thoughtfulness and maturity."

Dr. MacFarlane and her fellow researchers are trying to pinpoint the combination of factors — family, environmental shape the mature and immature individuals. They also want to know what patterns of personality development that carry over from one generation to the next are modified or reversed.

CIVILIZATION TERMED
IN AGE OF FATALISM
GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — Modern society seems to be "more aware of the absence of God than the presence of God," says Dr. Warren B. Martin, provost of Raymond College at the University of the Pacific.

He told a Methodist audience here that it is an age when "traditional absolutes and consolations are gone" and when "truth does not make men free but only makes him furious. Man has lost confidence in man at precisely the moment in history that he has lost contact with God. The prevailing mood is one of deterministic futility."

Minority Job Center Proposed in Denver

DENVER (UPI) — A unique job opportunity center for members of minority groups was expected to be proposed at a civil rights conference today in Denver.

The conference, to be attended by Gov. John Love and other state leaders, was slated to be a follow-up of what was termed a "Sense of Urgency" meeting last July.

The proposed center would assist members of minority races, and groups to locate jobs.

Love was to speak at an afternoon session today. Also slated to appear before the conference was Walter Davis, an AFL-CIO civil rights deputy director.

During 1962, 1,761 daily newspapers in the United States enjoyed a combined circulation of 60 million copies daily.

CIVILIZATION TERMED
IN AGE OF FATALISM
GLENDALE, Calif. (AP)—Modern society seems to be "more aware of the absence of God than the presence of God," says Dr. Warren B. Martin, provost of Raymond College at the University of the Pacific.

He told a Methodist audience here that it is an age when "traditional absolutes and consolations are gone" and when "truth does not make men free but only makes him furious. Man has lost confidence in man at precisely the moment in history that he has lost contact with God. The prevailing mood is one of deterministic futility."

America has to be tops! It takes top talent to maintain our world lead in science and business, in jobs and living standards . . . in moral influence.

Where does this talent come from? Higher education supplies most of it. But costs have crept higher. . . the colleges are battling to keep up. To stay on top, we must back our colleges. They need classrooms, laboratories and competent teachers.

HELP THE COLLEGE OF YOUR CHOICE NOW!

To find out how the college crisis affects you, write to HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, Times Square Station, New York 36.
